

This comment is regarding the "Do Not Call" rule. Indiana implemented a Telephone Privacy law that has dramatically lessened the number of unwanted calls. I am opposed to any proposal that would diminish this laws protection. Since I have been on the "Do Not Call" list my family and I have been able to eat dinner without telephone disruptions and we now enjoy Sunday mornings without any annoying phone calls. I would estimate that prior to the implementation of this list we would receive greater than 50 telemarketing calls a week. Since our name has been on the list we rarely receive any calls, maybe averaging one every other month. My family and I have very little time to spend with each other at home, we appreciate not spending the time dealing with the irritating telemarketing phone calls that always come at inconvenient times.
